

Leanne Linacre

Co-Founder of Lead5050

Leanne co-founded LILA* Liverpool in 2004. It has since grown to be one of the UK's leading independent English Language schools with a globally recognised brand and reputation.

Leanne is also one of the co-founders of Lead5050, a tech-for-good business which accredits and supports organisations working to close their gender pay and leadership gap. A top voice in gender equity, Leanne believes that people are increasingly looking to work for organisations that fit their own values and purpose and that unlocking the full potential of 51% of the population is crucial to economic success.
